

The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, June 25. 1706.

London, June 25.

Yesterday arriv'd the Mail from Holland of Tuesday last.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 26.

Madrid, June 9.

TH E King arriv'd here the 6th of this Month, and was receiv'd with all Demonstrations of Loyalty and of respectful Affection for his Person. He has since given Orders for the march of the Troops, the Militia, and the Horse of the Orders, towards the Frontier of Estramadura, in order to hinder the Progress of the Enemy. In the mean time the Army makes great Marches to enter Arragon, and 'tis thought some Detachments of it will be sent into Estramadura. Thus 'tis hop'd the Disgraces of the Campaign of Catalonia will be remedied in a little Time, the rather because the Affection and Zeal of the People appear to be still the same.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 29.

Madrid, June 9. The 6th King Philip arriv'd here. The next Day his Majesty sent for all the Grandees to Court, and had a long Conference with them. 'Tis reported they gave him new Assurances of their Fidelity; but desir'd that all Frenchmen might be order'd to depart the Court and City, M. Amelot Ambassador of France excepted. The Queen Dowager has sent one of her Gentlemen from Toledo, to compliment the King on his happy Arrival. The Portugueze have possess'd themselves of Salamanca; and 'tis said are marching towards Valladolid, to intercept the Troops that are expected from Navarre. The Duke of Berwick is encamp'd with his Body of Forces which augments daily, near Pedrazza on the little River Adaja, to cover Avila, Segovia, and this City. The Heats begin to be excessive, and breed Distempers in the Armies on both Sides. An Express from the Marshal de Thesse has brought an Account, that he is arriv'd in Navarre with 15000 Foot and 3000 Horse, and reckons to be at Alcala by the 20th Instant.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 29.

Amsterdam, June 28. They write from Genoa the 12th of this Month, that the 8th the Medway and the Mary, 2 English Men of War, arriv'd there in 9 Days from Barcelona; and landed M. Methuen Envoy of England to the Duke of Savoy: They brought with them a Vessel laden with Powder for that Duke. When they left Barcelona King Charles III. was upon his Departure thence with his Horse for Valencia, whither his Baggage was gone before; and the Fleet was sail'd with the Foot, to reduce the Places on the Coast to his Majesty's Obedience.

From the Amst. Gaz. and Cour. dated June 29.

Vienna, June 16. The 14th Advice came to Court from the Ministers of England and Holland at Tirnanu, that upon the pressing Exhortations they had made to the Heads of the Malecontents, they had resolv'd to give in their Demands of the Terms on which they would come to an Accommodation, and had appointed Presbourg for the Place of Treaty: Whereupon Yesterday the Bishop of Osnabrug, Count Lamberg, and M. Til, the Emperor's Plenipotentiaries, set out from hence for Presbourg, and will be follow'd to Day by Count Wratislaw.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 26.

From the Camp before Turin June, 13. Between the 5th and the 9th of this Month, the Trenches were carried on within Pistol-shot of the Palisades of the Outworks of the Place, notwithstanding the great Fire of Cannon which the Besieged have continually made with tho' hardly any Execution. Our Attacks are directed towards that side of the Citadel which faces the Plain, and towards the new Horn-work situate near that Gate of the City which is call'd Porte Suzine. Our Pioneers are sapping, and Batteries are raising which are not to fire till 50 pieces of Cannon are plac'd on them; tho' on the 8th a Battery of Mortars began to bombard the Place. The Enemy have made no Sally, and our Works being far advanc'd they cannot now make any considerable Sally. The 10th the Duke de la Feuillade march'd with 18 Battallions and 50 Squadrons towards Carignan, 3 Leagues above Turin, to lay a Bridge over the Po. The Duke of Savoy endeavour'd to oppose him with his Horse, some Foot, and Cannon: But the great Fire of Artillery and Musquets forc'd him to withdraw to some Distance. So the Bridge was finish'd the 11th. The 12th the Count d'Estain pass'd over with his Troops, to oblige the Duke of Savoy to retire, and to cut off the Communication with Turin. The Duke knowing the Importance of maintaining that Communication, advanc'd with all his Horse and some Battallions of his best Troops, to oppose the Execution of that Design. But the Count d'Estain caus'd them to be charg'd with so great Vigour, that they were presently broken, and oblig'd to run in disorder behind a fortified Cassine a Mile from the Po, to facilitate their rallying. The Count d'Estain caus'd the Cassine to be attack'd by 300 Grenadiers, supported by 300 Dragoons on Foot, and by some Horse. It was carried Sword in Hand, and all that were in it were kill'd or taken. Of the King's Troops only 1 Captain and 3 Subaltern Officers were kill'd, and 30 Grenadiers kill'd or wounded.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 26.

Paris, June 26. 'Tis advis'd from the Camp before Turin the 20th Instant, that the Duke de la Feuillade having pass'd the Po, had possess'd himself of Quiers, of several Posts on the Hills, and of Montcalier. The Duke of Savoy with 3000 Horse is retir'd, and with him all his Court and Equipages, having left in Turin 500 Horse and 20 Hussars. The Princesses are gone out of Turin.

The King has nominat'd the Duke of Vendome to command in Flanders; the Duke of Orleans to command in Italy, and the Marshal de Villars under him; and the Marshal de Marfin to go to Alsace in the Room of the Marshal de Villars.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated June 29.

Some Advices of the 25th Instant from the lower Rhine, tell us Letters were come thither from Milan, which related that the Prince of Vaudemont had caus'd all the French to depart that City, which had given Occasion to various Discourses; and that the Duke de la Feuillade had not above 30000 Men before Turin, in which the Duke of Savoy had 18 or 20000 regular Troops and Militia to defend it.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 29.

Liege, June 25. The Spanish Governour of the Castle of Namur, has refus'd anew to receive any French Troops to reinforce his Garrison.

From the Camp at Rousselaer, June 28. The Duke of Marlborough has sent Order to the Troops of Prussia and Hanover to come to Alost; where they will cover Brussels, and be at Hand to joyn this Army upon occasion. This Evening came Letters from Brigadier Cadogan, who commands the Troops before Dendermonde, advising that our Bombs having fir'd the Town in several Places, he sent last Night (with the Advice of the Marquis de Tarazena) to Monsieur Delvalle the Governour, to acquaint him that the Garrison was not to expect any other Conditions than to be made Prisoners of War, if they did did not forthwith surrender the Place : The Governour hereupon desir'd a Cessation of Arms for 24 Hours to consult with his Officers ; which was agreed ; and we doubt not to hear a good Issue of it to Morrow.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 26.

Dunkirk, June 18. The 14th Instant at 3 in the Morning the Gallies commanded by the Chevalier de Langeron went towards Ostend ; but 7 of the Enemy's Ships of War being favour'd by a strong Wind, oppos'd their Passage and oblig'd them to put back into our Road, after exchanging several Volleys of Cannon. All that Day and the 15th in the Morning the Enemy bombard'd Ostend with 6 Bomb-Vessels. The Governour, and the Count de la Mothe who commands the Troops there, order'd the Seamen of the Town to work the Cannon on the Batteries of the Port ; which they perform'd so well, that they oblig'd the Enemy to stand off to Sea, after 4 of their Ships were much damag'd. The Enemy's Seamen are making a Battery upon the Sands beyond the Port that covers the Place, but cannot do it much Damage from thence, because 'tis inaccessible except only on the Side towards Newport, on which side there were no Troops Yesterday. The King's Army is increas'd daily by new Troops, by Recruits, and by Soldiers that return to their Colours : 'Tis divided into several Camps, to cover the Frontier till it shall be thought necessary for it to draw together.

From the Paris Letter, dated June 25.

Paris, June 25. The Marshal de Vauban is at Dunkirk, near which he has mark'd out a Camp for 12000 Men, and set 3000 Peasants to work to intrench it : He reckons to be able from that Camp to send Succours as Occasion may require, to Newport, Furnes, Dixmuyde, and Ostend. Dendermonde is surrounded with Water ; and 'tis likely that Place may in Time enable us to recover Ghent and Mechlen. 20 Battallions detach'd from the Army on the Rhine, are on the March for the Netherlands, together with a certain Number of Squadrons, among them 6 of Carabineers, to supply the Room of the shatter'd Troops of the King's Household. The said Army still consists of 50 Battallions and 85 Squadrons, with which the Marshal de Villars makes sure Account he shall be able to maintain his Conquests in Alsace. A Courier from the Duke of Vendome arriv'd at Court the 21st Instant, and brought the King fresh Assurance, that he is watchful and prepar'd to oppose all Prince Eugene's Designs. M. de Chamaranthe pushes on the Siege of Turin with 50 Battallions and 30 Squadrons ; the Duke de la Feuillade being gone over the Po with the rest of the Army : The Attacks against the Citadel and the Town are carried on vigorously ; the Fire of our Artillery is very great ; and the Fort of the Capuchins is invested. The Princesses did not retire out of Turin till the 15th in the Night, under a strong Guard.

The 22d of this Month the King declar'd the Alteration he had made in the Generals of his Armies in Lombardy, Alsace, and Flanders ; which Alteration is applauded by all his People. The Departure of the Duke of Orleans is fix'd to the 30th of this Month ; and Orders are already sent to the Marshal de Marfin to go and relieve the Marshal de Villars.

From the Leiden Courant, dated June 30.

Paris, June 25. All Arragon has declar'd for King Charles III. and all the French, together with those that were known to be in the Interest of the House of Bourbon, have retir'd not only out of Saragossa, but of all other Places of that Kingdom. The Marshal de Villeroy being dispos'd, will go to Aix la Chappelle to use the Waters.

The following Verses came in Letters from Paris, which say they had been publicly sung there upon the Pont-neuf.

C'est à ce Coup que Villeroy
ce Marechal incomparable,
Pour avoir bien servi le Roy aura l'Epee de Connetable :
Car pour un moindre Evenement
Tallard eut un Gouvernement.

Varus rendez moy mes Legions !
s'ecrioit l'Empereur Auguste :
Tallard rendez moy mes Battailions !
dit Louis à titre plus juste ;
Tallard repond he ! Grand Roy demandez les à Villeroy.

Hague, June 29. Yesterday arriv'd Letters from Barcelona by the Way of Italy dated the 31st of last Month, which import, that a Council of War having been held there, it was resolv'd that the King should march into Valencia to reduce that Kingdom intirely, and especially the Coast ; for which purpose 6000 Men were embark'd. But Letters from Madrid of the 12th Instant, and others from Brussels advising that Arragon has declar'd for his said Majesty, 'tis believ'd if that News be true he will take his Way through Arragon to Castile. The States have notified to the Envoy of England, that all will be ready for the Troops they furnish for the intended Descent to be embark'd by the 5th of next Month. They have nominated for that Service the 3 Regiments of Foot of Torse, Belcastel, and Lillemarais, besides that of Cavalier the Camisard ; and 2 Regiments of Dragoons, viz. that of Matta and another. Letters from France say 'tis apprehended there will be some Dispute between the Elector of Bavaria and the D. of Vendome for the Command of the Army of the 2 Crowns in the Netherlands : They tell us likewise, that the Duke d'Enghien is nominated to command the French Army on the Upper Rhine.
